POLITICIANS AND POLITICAL NEWS.

The Republican Central Committee met in Xenia last Saturday in executive session. A motion was made by Buckles to reconsider the action of the committee on the nomination of "Billy" Rogers but it was lost. Another motion was offered favoring the old ward lines in Xenia for the primary but nothing was done until the Board of Elections takes action. Mr. T. B. Andrew of Cedarville made a motion that will have an important bearing on the election. It was to the effect that the various committees shall not allow to be placed on the ticket the name of any person who has been known to bolt the Republican ticket. The motion carried. A resolution allowing the persons nominated for Common Pleas Judge and for Senator to name their own delegates to the Judicial and Senatorial conventions was passed.

Politics certainly makes strange bed-fellows. It was only a few years ago that some of our prominent politicians were bitter antagonists. Today they are seemingly the best of friends in this popular contest. A few years ago Charles Ridgway and Andrew Jackson were prominent in a faction that was being opposed by T. B. Andrew and his followers. Now the three have put aside all differences and are posing as holding the political destiny of the township and corporation in their control. It was in those days that a bitter fight took place between Jackson, and Andrew for central committee, in which the latter was victorious. Such occurrences as these are rather odd to those well up in the management of politics.

EXTRA SESSION.

The question of an extra session of senate was settled Monday by the appearance of a proclamation by the president, calling the session for noon Tuesday. The constitution does not require the president to state the occasion for the call. It is simply an extraordinary session. The senate will have no power to do anything toward general legislation during the session just called, however, it may take up treaties still pending. With congress not in session and the Cuban reciprocity treaty ratified by the senate, the question comes up what the president will do in regard to executing the treaty. The house has invariably concluded that treaties of that kind do not execute themselves, and that action by the house is necessary to their becoming effective. The senate has a different theory and the two branches of congress have looked horns on that point time and again. The result has always been that the senate yielded in favor while still maintaining its theory. If congress does not meet until the regular session in December and the secretary of the treasury should instruct the custom house officials to put the treaty schedule in force in the meantime, complications might follow and there would certainly be unpleasantness in the house, which is jealous of its rights and takes little account of party lines when questions of that character arise.

PUBLIC SALE.

Having sold my farm located on the Yellow Springs pike, two miles north-west of Cedarville, I will offer for sale at public auction on the above named premises on Friday, March 20, 1903, the following property to-wit: 2 head of horses, consisting of general purpose horses; one 12 and the other 14 years old. 6 head of hogs consisting of good, young brood sows, bred to farrow April 25 to 30. Farming implements consisting of 1 Deering self binder in good condition, 1 Clifton 12 horse harrow and cutter—good, 1 combined Ervins planter, drill and chisel row in good condition, 1 long-necked cultivator, 1 field harrow, 1 breaking plow, 1 chaff cutter, 1 mowing machine and other articles too numerous to mention. 8 or 4 tons good mixed hay in barn. On the same day and place J. Hale Collins will sell the following: 1 Deering binder, 1 McCormick mower, 1 hay tedder, 1 covered spring wagon, one set of spring wagon harness, blacksmith and carpenter tools, etc. Terms made known on day of sale. J. W. Pollock, Auctioneer.

BREAKING PLOWS.

Syracuse Walking and Bradley Sulky and Gang plows are the best. For sale by W. R. Stewart.

DR. MCLELLAN ASSAULTED.

Dr. Ben McClellan, of Xenia, was the victim of a dastardly assault Friday evening about 8:30 o'clock. He had driven up to his office, leaving his driver in the buggy and upon returning saw a man coming across the road, supposedly for a physician. During his wait of a few minutes he saw no one coming to his office, so he started for his buggy. When he reached the sidewalk he found three men to his left and one in front of him. At this time he saw a tall man in front throw something, but dodged in time to escape the full force of the missile. The doctor's face is considerably bruised from the blow but not seriously. He remembers a revolver being thrust into his face by one whom he recognized as James Foley. His driver, Wilber Ross, seeing the position of the doctor, took part in the fray, but could not hold his man, owing to a pair of large gloves he had on. Ross claims that Foley stated that he would kill the doctor. Shortly after the assault the police arrested Foley, and a negro, Hickenbottom, at Mox Simon's saloon. Foley had a revolver on his person at the time of his arrest. They both plead not guilty to the charge of assault with intent to kill, and were held until Monday morning, when they appeared before Mayor Linkhart. Foley was sentenced to the work-house for ninety days, for carrying concealed weapons and was also fined $250. Harry Armstrong represented the defendants while the state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Howard and M. R. Snodgrass.

WERE YOU THERE?

A company of barnstormers, supposed to have hailed from Chillicothe, gave what is said to have been their second performance at the opera house Tuesday evening. The company came from Jamestown in a "bus" but no inquiry has been made concerning their departure but they certainly could not remain in town long on the strength of the show given Tuesday night. If the company contained any artists they were the advance man and the man at the door. The play was devoid of anything entertaining and a restless audience awaited the final curtain to relieve their agony. Those who saw the "Driven Away Company," "Bailey Sisters" or "The Handy Wagon show" have a fair idea of Tuesday night's performance. Manager Jackson says he had nothing to do with playing this company.

MARSH'S MARCH WEATHER.

Violent storms of cyclonic winds and heavy rains will occur at Cincinnati and vicinity during March; spring to summer temperature and not much of the usual March blustery weather. 1-3—Blustery, unsettled, stormy weather. 4-5—Generally fair and warmer, clouding on night of 5th. 6-8—Warmer; storms, rain and wind. 9-10—Generally fair and warm. 11-15—Thunderstorms, heavy rain and high wind. 16-18—Equinoctial storms, changeable temperature, warm to cool; rain to snowy weather, with cyclonic winds. 24-25—Fair, probably frost. 26-27—Violent storms, high winds and heavy rainfall. 30—Fair and warm.

W. W. MARSH,
Winton Place, Ohio.

W. B. HARRISON DEAD.

Xenia lost another prominent citizen by the death of W. B. Harrison, who passed away Tuesday morning, at Sea Breeze, Fla., where he had gone in hopes of bettering his health. The deceased was surrounded by his family at the time of his death. He was a sufferer from stomach trouble which was the cause of his death. Mr. Harrison was born in this county and was well known and highly esteemed by many. He was a heavy stock holder in the Hooven and Allison Cordage company at Xenia and had built quite a fortune for himself.

COMING LAND SALE.

I will sell at public auction, Thursday, March 12, 1903, at 11 a. m., about 75 acres of choice land, belonging to the estate of the late Adam Turner. Sale to be on the premises situated on the Olifson pike, one and one-half miles south of Clinton and two miles north of Cedarville college. Terms: One-third down, remainder in one and two years, secured by mortgage on land. A. H. White, Auctioneer.

HERALD'S WEEKLY PHOTOGRAPH.

William L. Clemans was born in Jamestown and is the son of Rev. F. M. Clemans, who at the time was a teacher in the public schools at that place. His parentage was from one of the aristocratic families of those days, his father being a close associate of the late Hon. John Little, Senator Bill Hill and Hon. Whitlaw Reid. Mr. Clemans attended the common school until he finished the grammar grade. He never received a college education and has made himself what he is to-day. He was married to Miss Retta Turnbull and has lived in this vicinity ever since. During the days of the old Cedarville Bank, Mr. Clemans acted as cashier for eight years, after which he ventured in the insurance business which has proven to be his profession. During the time Mr. Clemans has been in the insurance business, six years, he has built, not only for himself, but for his insurance companies, a wonderful business. He has what is known as a special agency for the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, which gives him the right to solicit in any part of the state. For this company he has written $485,000, $228,000 of which was written in the last two years. This amount represents policies that have actually been paid for. For fire and cyclone insurance Mr. Clemans writes most of his policies in the Home Insurance company of New York, although he represents thirteen other companies. The Home is the largest insurance company in the world and in Greene county alone it pays more taxes than any other fire insurance company represented. In this department Mr. Clemans has over 7200 policies which expire at the rate of ten each working day. This keeps his several agents at Jamestown, Washington, C. H., Sabina and South Solon, busy looking after renewals. Mr. Clemans has the largest state agency in the state, the eastern half of Greene county, including Cedarville, Jamestown, Bowersville and several smaller towns the south-eastern quarter of Clark county, all of Fayette county with the towns of Washington, C. H., Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg, the eastern half of Clinton county including the town of Sabina which has 1600 inhabitants, and also parts of Madison and Highland counties. His policy holders extend north and south fifty three miles while those to the east and west extend over forty miles. In the six years of this agency Mr. Clemans has written $5,754,000; $3,139,000 of which was written within the past two years and is still in force. His agents are now writing about 220 policies per month in new business. Uncle Sam profits largely by the business Mr. Clemans has built as it requires over $200 yearly in postage.

THE EFFECT OF THE SALOON.

The assault upon Dr. Ben McClellan in Xenia last Friday night will possibly do the cause of temperance more good than any steps taken to stamp out the curse of drink. Yet in bringing about a good work to overcome evil, the life of a peaceful law abiding citizen came near being sacrificed. The doctor holds the position of police commissioner and is a member of the committee seeking good government in his home city, and this is attributed as the cause of the dastardly assault, the night mentioned. It is to be deplored deeply that the time should be ripened for the work of law breakers and it is the duty of the citizens to permit no delay in profiting by this terrible experience. The saloon and its attendant evils has been the means of breeding the anarchistic spirit that has broken out in this county. We know that these human demons cannot be punished until they have committed a statutory crime or have become so disorderly that they must be punished for nothing more than misdemeanor. We hear of the respectable saloon keeper, of the man who conducts his business lawfully, but do we hear that this same business is not being conducted in opposition to the moral law? The moment the news was received, nine of every ten citizens in this county attributed the assault on this well known gentleman to have been done at the hands of one whose whiskey brain was driving him to the awful deed. Doctor McClellan is a man in every sense of the word, a man who believes in free speech and always holds for the maintenance of law and order. He was a victim of one who is defiant of law, and filled with the anarchistic spirit. To the shame of Cedarville, it is true that some of these serpents in men's clothing are lurking here. They are writhing and squirming in their foul dens even in this village, as they are in other towns where laws are being violated. The Herald has advocated no saloon, the people have said there shall be no saloon but nevertheless we have one saloon and a whiskey-selling drugstore which is far worse, for the proprietor of this "hell-hole" only seeks the laws of this state as a protection for his damnable work regardless of the fact that he signed a petition favoring local option. It is apparent at this day, why this drug store favored this reform. The men that are in the grasp of the local committee, who are urging good government, are of the same type as those who have caused a citizen of Xenia to be brutally assaulted. Then when will the citizens of Cedarville refuse to listen to the dictations of such men? Every effort is being made by this class of anarchists, who use the name of a political party to cover their work, to gain control of our municipal government, of our schools, of everything that pertains to the welfare of a christian community. Now is the time for calm and deliberate action and the earnest and patriotic cooperation of every good citizen, and wise and effective measures are asked for the eradication of criminals of every class who are now threatening the overthrow of our civilization. The man who committed this assault can never receive the punishment that he so richly deserves. It is well that this criminal was taken in charge before the natural human wrath inflicted injury on him at the hands of the people. This assault was the act of a coward without cause or reason except possibly fancied wrongs in upholding the local option movement. Men should not be denied their liberty, but the anarchist and his closest friend, the whiskey seller, will have to be suppressed. American liberty is the greatest blessing in the world. Those who abuse this privilege to exercise a license which threatens and endangers the foundations of our social order, the lives of men selected to carry on good government and the lives and rights of everybody are common enemies who have not and should not be permitted to have any lot or part in the political and industrial privileges of good government whether national, state or municipal.

MANURE SPREADERS.

The Kemp is the best and the cheapest. For sale by W. R. Stewart.

The Wilmington Journal, though a little tardy, aptly says that "Greene County officers shall search in vain for a Cedarville murderer. Maybe he stalks in the mud while crossing one of Xenia's streets."

FARM, FIELD AND STOCK.

Jesse Townsley has been having all kinds of luck with his horses of late. A week or ten days ago he had a fine road horse to die from pneumonia, a few days later a fine draft mare received a flesh wound on her limb which bled for sixteen hours before it could be stopped. A straw knife had been left in a straw stack and had fallen to the ground, the horse stepping upon this met with the above result. A day or so ago a yearling colt was injured supposedly by older horses crowding it against a feed box. While Mr. Townsley is one of our most successful farmers he has had the misfortune to have eleven horses to die on his place in the past four years. This looks like quite a loss to Mr. Townsley and no doubt it has been as he is very fond of fine horses.

A well known stock breeder of near Dayton, Yeamann by name, was here last week looking over different herds of Red Polled cattle, and after leaving has written to J. H. Stormont that he finds in his herd what he wants, after a careful search of this section of the country. Mr. Stormont consequently shipped to him on Monday two fine animals as were ever sent from the township. The shipment included a male and female. Mr. Stormont reports that he finds a very ready sale for his stock, the stock selling entirely on its grade and not by a great amount of advertising at the fairs. Citizens in general will be glad to know Mr. Stormont is making such success in the breeding of this class of cattle.

Surely "Gorn is King." Mr. Clark Butterworth writes the Waynesville Gazette, that if the single year's product in the United States is, as published 2,528,638, 312 bu., that this amount "if it were loaded into freight cars carrying 850 bushels each, it would require 7,224,680 cars, and if each were 40 feet long, including the space between them, the whole would be equal to a train nearly 54,733 miles long, or nearly 2.19 times around the earth.

Robert Tindall shipped two car loads of fine Aberdeen-Angus cattle last Saturday. The cattle were raised by Rile Bros. of near Clifton, and were in excellent condition commanding the highest price.

R. C. Watt this week shipped to Mt. Sterling, Ill., and Springfield, O., two of his fine blooded hogs, two to Zion (ville), Ind., and two more will be shipped, on Monday, to New Carlisle.

William Conley, breeder of Guernsey cattle shipped a cow to Milwaukee several days ago. The animal tested 24.6 pounds of butter in seven days and was sold to a wealthy man of that city.

Howard Corry sent two fine working horses to the London sale Tuesday, but was only successful in selling one of them.

Frank Townsley the cattle buyer, shipped three loads of cattle for Baltimore last Monday.

PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENT.

In response to invitations issued by Miss Irene McClellan, about fifty of her young friends gathered at her home last Friday evening. Upon entering, each gentleman was presented with a card upon which was written the name of the hero in some work of fiction. The lady holding the card bearing the heroine's name was his companion during refreshments. This manner of selecting one's company proved quite novel and enjoyable. Immediately after refreshments were served each gentleman was called upon to compose a proposal in verse. A beautiful silver-mounted blotter was presented to Emerson Nisbet, he having, by the decision of the judges, composed the best article. "For the sake of a suffering public," Mr. Nisbet asks that we refrain from publishing his poem.

C. M. Crouse has been confined to his room for several days owing to a sore throat. It was with considerable difficulty that he was able to swallow food other than in liquid form.

A BIG JUDGMENT.

In the case of George Mathers and others against A. Y. Reid, David and Belle Ervin and E. J. Tully, a judgment was given yesterday against the defendants for $57,616.31. This was due in rents and street assessments in property in Norwood which the defendants leased from the Mathers, and the Court found they were liable for the street assessments though they are not all due; but will have to be paid by the Mathers, who got back the property, when they do fall due. It was the Norwood Park subdivision which was involved, the company having it making an assignment long ago.—Wednesday's Cincinnati Enquirer.

COUNTY COURT NEWS.

A suit has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas to set aside the will of John S. Alexander, who died in February, 1901. The plaintiffs in the case are Matthew C. Blanch, Charles Walter, Josephine R. and Isabel Alexander and May Sutton, Mary L. Drake and Maude Costenbolder. The defendants are Martha M. and Grace Drake, James A. Alexander and Alfred Johnson as the executors of John S. Alexander. It is averred by the plaintiffs that the paper admitted to probate is not the last will of said John S. Alexander. It is claimed that at date of the will Jan. 25, 1901, he was not of sound mind and memory, but by reason of age and worry over business matters was mentally incapacitated from making a will or a proper disposition of his property.

The suit of W. M. Mitchell, against T. B. and J. H. Andrew, in the Common Pleas Court Tuesday and Wednesday, resulted in the jury returning a verdict in favor of the defendants. The suit was to determine the ownership of certain property, which Mr. Mitchell claimed was not real estate but personal property. He asked about $4000 as the value of same. The jury was here Wednesday morning and inspected the mill. The case was given them about 7 o'clock and they wrestled with it till 5 o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Mitchell was not allowed any thing.

Judge Scroggy rendered an opinion a few days ago that will be of interest to the temperance people and to certain saloonists as well. At the last session of the grand jury a number of indictments were returned against saloonists and a motion was filed to quash the indictments. Several grounds were offered as to why the indictments should be found to be not good, but Judge Scroggy refused to sustain them and held that the indictments were all right, making the first victory in the fight for the Prosecuting Attorney.

LIST OF LETTERS.

STATE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Columbus Grove, West Leipsic voted "dry" under the Beal law Monday, the result being 47 to 35.

Lancaster. There is an epidemic of measles at the Boys' Industrial School. There are 62 cases already reported.

Frankfort. An election was held Monday and the "drys" won by a majority of 38. It is the largest village in the county.

Marion. The farmers of Clariden Township, Marion County, have organized and agreed to not purchase a single piece of machinery made by a combine.

Alliance. The Public Library Board have accepted the offer of Andrew Carnegie to give $20000 for a library building to be located on the high school campus and under the control of the Board of Education.

Urbana. George Mann, a traveling salesman from Cincinnati, slipped on a rotten apple on the street, breaking his left leg. Securing the services of an attorney, Mr. Mann has brought suit against the owner of the apple.

Columbus. George L. Duncan, received at the penitentiary for forgery at Toledo has written a play which he believes will support his wife during his incarceration. He is a bright young man and was prominent in the Maumee city.

Cleveland. Harry A. Garfield, son of the late President Garfield, is being boomed for mayor on the Republican ticket to beat Tom L. Johnson. Mr. Garfield is a non-factionist and is a brother of James R. Garfield, appointed to a place in the new Department of Commerce.

Castalia. Castalia has the distinction of being the seat of operations of a new combine. There had been five saloons in the place and great rivalry existed. By a deal which was consummated today, the firm of Smith & Powney gained control of all five saloons. They promptly closed two of them.

Delaware. Milton Searles, the farmer who signed contracts for electric lights which two strangers agreed to install for $2 each, the contractors turning up latter in the Searley bunks as promissory notes, enjoined banks from collecting the notes, claiming that they were obtained by trickery.

WHO HAS THE FIFTH?

It has developed since the visit of the deputy internal revenue collector that there are five government homes in this town. A rather puzzling question arises as to who holds the fifth as only four can be accounted for. It is known that Osmen Crawford and Geo. Dean each have licenses as have the drug stores, which are required to hold same even for the sale of liquors, wines and alcohol for medicinal purposes. If the Committee of One Hundred continues their good work they will soon locate the fifth place.

Dr. J. O. Stewart, administrator of the estate of Benjamin Stewart, of Xenia, has filed a petition in Probate Court against the Board of Foreign Missions to set aside its gift of $1000.

Butting Into Society

Hank Cut Ice In Circle City, but Wasn't Worth Beans In Boston

From "Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer. By permission of Smith, Maynard & Co., Publishers, Boston.

I never see a fellow trying to crawl or to buy his way into society that I don't think of my old friend, Hank Smith, and his wife Kate. Hank was before he married her—and how they tried to butt their way through the upper crust.

Hank and I were boys together in Missouri, and he stayed along in the old town after I left. I heard of him on and off attending stores a little and farming a little and loafing a good deal. Then I forgot all about him until one day a few years ago when he turned up in the papers as Captain Henry Smith, the Klondike gold king, just back from Circle City with a million in dust and anything you please in cash. There's never any limit to what a man may be worth in those days, is there?

I was a little puzzled when a week later my office boy brought me a card reading Colonel Henry Augustus Smith-Smythe. I supposed it was some distinguished foreigner who had come to see me as he had to be around on his way out of Chicago in his new book, and I told the boy to show the colonel in.

I've got a pretty good memory for faces, and I'd bought too much store of Hank in my time not to know him, even with a clean shave and a high top. He was just spotting out of Hank. I told me he'd made his pile and that he was tired of living on the slag heap; that he'd spent his whole life where money hardly whispered, let alone talked, and he was going now where it would shout. Wanted to know what was the use of being a mob if a fellow wasn't the nobbiest sort of a mob. Hank had bought a house on Beacon Hill, and that I'd hear something about the Back Bay. Hank had his new card four times and explained that it was the rarest sort of dog to carry a brace of names in your card holder; that it gave you the drop on the swells every time and that they just had to throw up both hands and pass you the pot when you showed down. Hank said that Boston was old England for Smith and that Smythe was new American for Smith; the Augustus was just a fancy touch, a sort of high card kicker.

I didn't explain to Hank, because it was congratulations and not explanations that he wanted, and I make it a point to show a customer the line of goods that he's looking for. And I never heard the full particulars of his experiences in the east, though from what I learned afterward Hank struck Boston with a bang all right.

He located his claim on Beacon Hill between a Mayflower descendant and a Declaration signer's great-grandson, breeds which believe that when the Lord made them he was through and that the rest of us just happened. And he hadn't been in town two hours before he started in to make improvements. There was a high wrought iron railing in front of his house, and he had that gilded first thing, because, as he said, he wasn't running a receiving vault and he didn't want any mistakes. Then he bought a nice open barouche, had the wheels painted red, hired a nigger coachman and started out in style to be sociable and get acquainted. Left his card all the way down one side of Beacon street and then drove back, leaving it on the other. Everywhere he stopped he found that the whole family was out. Kicked it up a week, on and off, but didn't seem to have any luck. Thought that the men must be hot sports and the women great gadders to keep on the jump so much. Allowed that they were the liveliest little lot of foes that he had ever chased. Decided to quit trying to nail 'em one at a time and planned out something that he reckoned would round up the whole bunch.

Hank sent out a thousand invitations to his grand opening, as he called it; left one at every house within a mile. Had a brass band on the front steps and fireworks on the roof. Ordered forty kegs from the brewery and hired a fancy mixer to sling together mild snorts, as he called them, for the ladies. They tell me that when the band got to going good on the steps and the fireworks on the roof even Beacon street looked out the windows to see what was doing. There must have been 10,000 people in the street and not a soul but Hank and his wife and the mixer in the house. Some one yelled "Speech!" and then the whole crowd took it up, till Hank came out on the steps. He shut off the band with one hand and stopped the fireworks with the other. Said that speechmaking wasn't his strong point; that he'd been living on snowballs in the Klondike for so long that his gas pipe was frozen, but that this welcome started the ice, and he thought about three fingers of the plumber's favorite prescription would cut out the frost. Would the crowd join him? He had invited a few friends in for the evening, but there seemed to be some misunderstanding about the date, and he had to have the good stuff carried on his hands. While this was going on the Mayflower descendant was telephoning for the police from one side and the signer's great-grandson from the other, and just as the crowd yelled and broke for the house two patrol wagons full of policemen got there. But they had to turn in a riot call and bring out the reserves before they could break up Hank's little Boston tea party.

After all, Hank did what he started out to do with his party—rounded up all his neighbors in a bunch, though not exactly according to schedule. For next morning there were so many descendants and great-grandsons in the police court to prefer charges that it looked like a reunion of the pilgrim fathers. The judge fined Hank on sixteen counts and bound him over to keep the peace for a hundred years. That afternoon he left for the west on a special, because the limited didn't get there quick enough. But before going he tacked on the front door of his house a sign which read:

Neighbors paying their party calls will please not leave rocks through windows to attract attention. Not in and not going to be. Gone back to Circle City for a little while. Truly yours, HANK SMITH, N. B.—Too swift for your uncle.

Hank dropped by my office for a minute on his way to Frisco. Said he liked things lively, but there was also a little more refinement in his. Said he wasn't all that cracked up to be in the school histories and that Circle City wasn't so tough as it read in the newspapers, for there was no way of making him understand that he might have lived in Boston for a hundred years without being invited to a strawberry sociable. Because a fellow cuts ice on the article circle it doesn't follow that he's going to be worth hank on the Back Bay.

THE FOOL ROOSTER

He's Always Crowing, but It's the Hen That Lays the Egg

I've heard a good deal in my time about the foolishness of hens, but when it comes to right down, plum foolishness gave me a rooster every time. He's always strutting and stretching and crowing and bragging about things with which he had nothing to do. When the sun rises, you'd think that he was making all the light instead of all the noise. When the farmer's wife throws the scraps in the henyard, he crows as if he was the provider for the whole farmyard and was asking a blessing on the food. When he meets another rooster, he crows, and when the other rooster looks him in the eye, he keeps it up straight through the day. He never wakes up during the night and crows a little on general principles. But when you hear from a hen she's laid an egg, and she don't make a great deal of noise about it either. From "Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lorimer.

Working Overtime.

Well Again.
The many friends of John Hunt will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town (Monon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. M. Ridgway.

The transfer has been made to Mr. John D. George by Alex. Ervin for the sale of three-fourths of an acre. The consideration was $282.50.

Colds Are Dangerous.
How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by C. M. Ridgway.

The big musical offering, "Flourish," was at the Grand, in Springfield, last night but it was not the same company that was in this part of the country last year. Those who saw it then saw it at its best. This same house has booked the pretty opera, "The Princess Chio," with Joseph Miron and Christine Hudson in the leading parts. This same company was seen in Springfield earlier in the season and made such a hit that a return engagement was called for.

Springfield Democrat—It is narrated that a good looking, well-to-do, bachelor, who has been teased by the young women of a club for not marrying, offered to make the girl whom the club should elect his wife, just to show them that he was not averse to matrimony. Each girl went to a corner and wrote her choice on a piece of paper disguising her hand writing. There were 16 members of the club, and the result showed one vote for each. The young man is still a bachelor, but the club is broken up and its members are all mad at each other.
